foreword

EACH year a changing campus greets the eye of returning alumni, for Ball State Teachers College has progressed far since its establishment almost twenty years ago. The next quarter century holds in store the development of this nucleus to one of the largest and best-known educational institutions of the middle west.

dedication

THE year 1937 has marked a turning point in the history of Ball State Teachers College, for the name of one of the two major publications of the campus has been changed from the traditional and now meaningless title, "The Easterner," to the more applicable and modern one, "The Ball State News." Work on "The Orient," the second major publication, had progressed too far for a change of name to be effected easily, and so the new name of the book that portrays life on the campus has been left to the 1938 editor. With sincere appreciation to the past editors of "The Orient" and with good wishes for the future editors of the annual, this book is dedicated.

MEN'S RESIDENCE HALL

BEFORE a large crowd of students, college officials, and citizens, the ground-breaking ceremony of the Frank Elliott Ball Hall for men was held April 30 at the corner of Talley and University avenues.

The hall is the gift of Frank C. Ball, father of Frank Elliott Ball, in whose honor the building will be a memorial. In presenting the building, Mr. Ball embodied in his speech the idea that the dormitory was to be a club house where boys could enjoy college life. Dean Howick represented the faculty in expressing appreciation, and Howard Armstrong, president of the Senior Class and the Student Association, spoke on behalf of the student body.

Housing facilities for 102 men will be provided when the structure is completed. In addition to the room for men, the hall will include a large dining room in the basement which may be converted into three smaller rooms. A cafeteria will be located in the basement also. A lounge will be located on the first floor, and there will be reading rooms on the second floor. Chapter rooms and a game room will be located on the fourth floor of the building.

This is the first of the buildings to be constructed on the campus in the ten-year building plan. George F. Schrieber, who planned the Arts Building, is the architect.

MEN'S RESIDENCE HALL

BALL STATE'S BUILDING PLAN

THE change that has been effected on the campus in the last ten years will be more than equaled in the next ten years if plans of the college are realized.

Work on the Men's Residence Hall has already started. An extension of Burris School is definitely materializing and extensive plans for a rural educational school, a practical arts building, a new administration building, and remodeling the old into a recitation building are now in preparation. Completion of the library is also on the proposed program. The north end of the auditorium will be enlarged to provide a larger stage and room for a workshop for the dramatics department.

Ball Gymnasium is to have an addition of a swimming pool; recreation facilities, including a log cabin, are to be provided on the west end of the campus. A home economics practice home is planned. There are also proposals for a president's home, a student building, and construction of a greenhouse. A new women's residence hall is also proposed.

In addition to the new buildings there will also be storage facilities for coal, possible generation of power, and improvement in drives, walks, and parking facilities.

FRANK C. BALL AT BREAKING OF THE GROUNDS FOR MEN'S RESIDENCE HALL

FRANK E. BALL

BALL STATE suffered an irreparable loss when Frank Elliott Ball was killed in a plane crash in Ohio on May 28, 1936. Mr. Ball was recognized as an accomplished pilot, and his death came as a great surprise and shock to those connected with the industry as well as to those of us who had been fortunate enough to have been influenced by him even in the slightest degree.

To the students of Ball State, Frank Elliott Ball was looked upon as an ideal whose characteristics we should all strive to emulate. Although he is not now with us as we should all like to have him, his influence will, nevertheless, always accompany us. Those of the men students who are fortunate enough to have residence in the beautiful new dormitory, built by Frank C. Ball in honor of his son, will always have his name before them to spur them on to greater achievements.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

THE school year of 1936-37 is coming to a close, as all things good or bad must. To each and all of us, I am certain, this year just closing has brought joys as well as sorrows.

New fields of learning have opened to our view; new friends have widened our interest in life; and hopes we never realized before have beckoned us on to greater endeavors.

It is the hope of Ball State that all of you in the Class of 1937 have acquired habits of learning that will compel you to be learners all your life. Whether you are in college halls, in open fields, or in store rooms, if you will apply your mind carefully to your tasks you will succeed. The learner always has a job and is always in line to serve his fellow men.

If you will only think, even though thinking may be dangerous, Ball State will be proud to claim you as one of her sons or daughters.

L. A. PITTENGER, President.

PRESIDENT PITTENGER

RALPH NOYER
Dean of the College

"It matters little," said a wise man, "where you are, but it matters much in what direction you are going." You and I in the adventure of education have moved in the direction of a college of a quality rather than of quantity. This has not been easy. But the problems we have tried to solve together have given us faith in our ability to maintain some control over the future. In many respects we have merely started what we hoped to complete. We have caught a vision, however, of what a college can and must be, a select body of like-minded persons inspired by faith in the power of intelligence and its two instruments, knowledge and reason.

BURRIS SCHOOL

BURRIS SCHOOL is used by students of Ball State Teachers College as a laboratory school. Students are introduced to Burris in theory courses in the freshman year. In the following years participation work is carried on, in which the student is permitted to work with the Burris teacher in organizing materials and using them in practical classroom situations.

LIBRARY STAFF

BESIDES reading-room space for more than two hundred people the library has adequate stack space and three recitation rooms. The stacks are equipped with comfortable study desks. The book collection contains about 55,000 volumes. In addition the library owns approximately 1,400 lantern slides and stereographs which may be used by students in class work or in student teaching.

BOOK STORE

THE Ball State Book Store is located in the basement of the east wing of the Administration Building. It is owned and operated by the college and is under supervision of the Controller of the college. The Book Store is for the students and furnishes books, materials, and supplies at the lowest possible prices. A complete line of jewelry, stationery, and athletic supplies is also carried. In addition, a branch post office is maintained for students.

HEALTH SERVICE

EACH student is given a health examination during the first term of his registration in Ball State Teachers College. In the health examination, habits and defects are noted. The student is guided in constructive health building, either by regulation of health habits or correction of defects. Medical advice and dispensary treatment at the health service is provided free to students, and all are urged to report to the office at the first symptoms of illness.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION

THE Student Association was organized on Ball State campus in the spring of 1933 to promote and correlate student activities and encourage greater student-faculty cooperation. Headed by an executive committee of fifteen student members and three faculty advisors, the organization lists every Ball State student as a member; every student is represented in the council meetings by at least one of the fifteen spokesmen. Through the year the association has sponsored two major functions, Dad's Day and Homecoming. Marvin Stout was in charge of Dad's Day and Chauncey Addleman was general chairman of Homecoming. This year the group made the first award of the Student Association scholarship to Evaline Birum.

THE CLASS of 1937 began its career in 1933 with Glen Woollen of Fairmount, president; Loren Blue of Marion, vice-president; Martha Gray of Massachusetts, secretary; and Ralph McCarty of Bluffton, treasurer.

Dr. Edgar Menk, chairman of the sponsors, has been ably assisted throughout our college career by Miss Frances Botsford, Miss Elizabeth Meloy, Miss Nancy Scramlin, Mrs. Sharley B. DeMotte, Dr. Ervin C. Shoemaker, and Vernal Carmichael.

At the beginning of the year, Betty Wingate was chosen secretary, but at her withdrawal to accept a teaching position, Betty Greene was selected to fill her place. Due to an already full social calendar of the school, the seniors engaged in no major activities during the year. The president appointed senior committees and announced that on June 9 commencement exercises would be held. Other senior activities dates are June 2, senior convocation; June 4, junior-senior prom; June 6, baccalaureate; June 7, president's reception and class night; and June 8, trustee-faculty reception and alumni dinner.

Earl Richardson was appointed general chairman of the final week activities and was assisted by sub-committees headed by Wilma Russell Hewitt, invitations; Mary Alice Tapscott, gift; Marion Feasel, picnic; Charles Rittman, class night; and William Harmeyer, senior convocation.

TRIBUTE TO SENIOR SPONSORS

THE Class of 1937 wishes to express its appreciation to the members of the faculty who have acted as sponsors of the class from its beginning in 1933. During the four years the sponsors have given their time and thought in guiding the class to its ultimate goals — graduation and a more thorough understanding of life.

Especially is the class indebted to Dr. E. A. Menk, chairman of the committee of sponsors. Other members were Mrs. Sharley B. DeMotte, Miss Frances Botsford, Miss Nancy Scramlin, Miss Elizabeth Meloy, Dr. Ervin C. Shoemaker, and Vernal Carmichael.

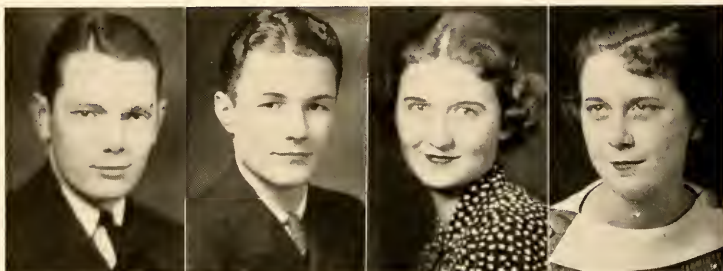

JAYO WILLIAMSON

THIS book wouldn't be complete without a picture of our photographer, Jayo Williamson, to whom we owe many thanks for his excellent cooperation and assistance in scheduling and developing pictures. Although new at the job at the beginning of the year, Jayo took to photography like the proverbial duck. Proof of his talent may be seen in this picture of him, which he took himself.

JUNIOR CLASS

THE members of the junior class have had a highly successful year and by their carefully planned and directed activities have proved themselves worthy of becoming seniors.

Under the direction of Richard Cady, the 1937 Junior Follies was held April 7 at the Rivoli Theater.

On Wednesday, May 26, junior convocation was held in Assembly Hall. The highlight of this program was the presentation of the prom queen at an impressive ceremony. The fourth annual junior-senior prom was given June 4 with Wesley Gough as chairman.

SOPHOMORES

HAVING completed their first year and beginning to think that college life was being exemplified by them, the class of 1939 started out on their second epoch-making year.

In the early fall the class elected its officers. John Bremer from Fort Wayne was elected president; Martha Jackson from Muncie, vice-president; Elta Mae Schultz from Marion, secretary; and Mary B. Marshall from Mt. Summit, treasurer.

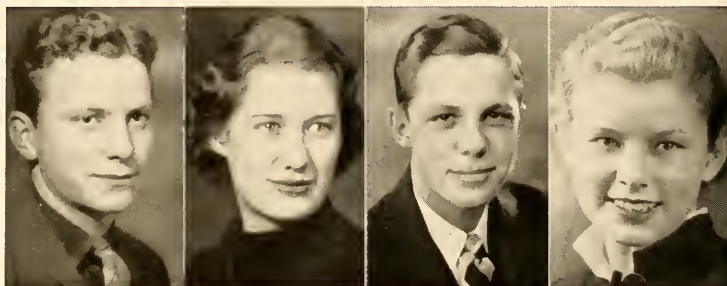

In their annual fight with the freshmen, the sophs lost what they had won the year before and the freshmen were allowed to remove the red buttons from their caps.

There are several outstanding men and women in the sophomore class that bear recognition. In the athletic line we see Baker Ross, Dale Miller, Walter Pesavento, Curtis Rathburn, and Harold Carlson. Along the journalistic line the sophomores are very lucky to have John Bremer in their midst. It is very seldom that a sophomore is made editor-in-chief of the Ball State News, but this distinctive honor went to Bremer, and so far he is doing an outstanding bit of work. Elta Mae Schultz has appeared in many campus productions and has always turned in a sterling performance.

Although on Homecoming morning the two lower classes fought with heart and soul, they collaborated for their annual dance and made it a huge success. Started in 1935, this has come to be an annual affair and one which is eagerly looked forward to by members of both classes.

FRESHMEN

ON THE morning of September 14, 1936, a body of well over five hundred young men and women put in their appearance for the first time on the campus of Ball State. These men and women comprised the largest freshman class in the history of the school. After their orientation and getting-acquainted period, they settled down to become college men and women.

Their first official duty was to elect their class officers. This was done with the result that Kenneth Burkhardt of Peru was elected president; Raymond Hatcher of Muncie, vice-president; Betty Jose of Shelbyville, secretary; and Phyllis Rice of Muncie, treasurer.

ATHLETIC COMMITTEE

THE members of the athletic committee comprise the power behind the throne of Ball State athletics. The committee is composed of six members chosen from the various departments of the college. Its chief functions are those dealing with the finances, eligibility, awarding of letters and sweaters, and other aspects of the various branches of athletics.

PAUL B. WILLIAMS

Paul B. (Billy) Williams is finishing his sixteenth year as head of the physical education department of Ball State. He came here in 1921 and we hope is destined to be here for many years to come. It has been largely through his efforts that the athletic department here at Ball State has made such great steps forward.

When "Billy" came to the campus, he was the only instructor in the department. After five years, however, another instructor was added and now there has been such advancement that there is need for three men and three women instructors and coaches.

Mr. Williams received his M. A. from Columbia in 1927. Aside from being physical education head, "Billy" also serves in the capacity of baseball coach. His teams have come to be feared all through the state, their most remarkable achievement being the three straight beatings they have given the Fighting Hoosiers from Indiana University in the last three years.

BRANCH McCracken

JOHN MAGNABOSCO

Branch McCracken has been head basketball and tennis coach at Ball State since 1930. While at Indiana University "Mac" was chosen on the All-American basketball team, and during his senior year established a new Conference scoring record. His football playing while in school also stood him in good stead for his job here on the campus as assistant football coach and chief scout. Since being here on the campus, "Mac" has taken Ball State out of the secondary class in basketball and each year his teams challenge and defeat some of the best teams in the country. "Mac" received his B. S. in 1930 and his M. S. in 1935.

John "Uncle" Magnabosco graduated from Indiana University in 1930 and received his masters degree from the same institution in 1931. His first coaching assignment was at Clinton High School at which place he produced teams that were among the best in Indiana. "Maggie" came to Ball State in 1935 to take over the duties of head football coach and track coach. Since that time the type of playing has undergone a very marked change. "Maggie" features spectacular and open plays and has the spectators on their feet most of the time the game is going on. With a wealth of veteran material returning, hopes for next year are very high.

FOOTBALL

"Uncle" John Magnabosco, directing the destinies of the Cardinal grid squad for the second year, wrapped his eyes around a pleasing array of veteran talent as preliminary pigskin rehearsals began.

The varsity line was especially heart-warming, as two wingmen, tried and proven as to merit — Feasel and Heshner — were on the flanks; "King-Kong" Gough and Dan Perry, the Warsaw terror, were at the tackle berths; John Graham, hard-hitting junior, and Jimmy Davidson, all-state performer from Bicknell, were in the guard slots; and Dick Hunt, all-state secondary college center, returned to his familiar position in the spine of the line.

The backfield, however, was a knotty problem to the Cardinal mentor, since Alvy

RATHBURN INTERCEPTS AND SCORES

Havens, the only returning veteran, was in cold storage with an old knee injury. Green timber ruled the roost behind the veteran line, with Curt Rathburn and Ray Lackey at halfbacks; Walter Pesavento, tough little fullback from Clinton, at the plunging berth, and Dale Miller, Pesavento's stablemate from Clinton, barking signals.

The season's initial encounter found the Cards taking a trip to Ypsilanti and being edged out by a heavy Michigan Normal aggregation, 6 to 0. Both outfits threw up well-nigh impregnable defenses, and the Normal touchdown came on a trick spinner that threw the Card defense out of gear for only a split-second. That split-second was the difference between two fine ball clubs. All in all, the Cardinals played one of their finest games of the season against the Michigan beef trust.

Central Normal of Danville marred the home inauguration by smoting the Cards hip and thigh, 25 to 6. The Warriors capitalized on every break and wrapped the game in a sack in the opening minutes. Substitute "Swede" Carlson's brilliant open-field dashes were the only features to write home about in this fiasco.

with a slim 3-to-0 shutout. The loss was a heart-rending one, as a placement kick by Wally Marks, ace booter, came as the shadows were lengthening on a beautiful ball game. The Cardinals, man to man, fought the good fight, and really won a moral victory, having the leather in State territory most of the way.

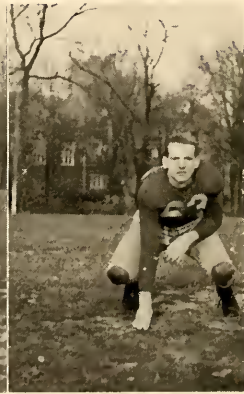

The courageous Cards, however, exchanged a tooth for a molar by traveling to

BASKETBALL

COACH Branch McCracken beamed with ear-to-ear grins as his net prides greeted him for what had all the ear-marks of a juicy basketball season. The personable pilot waded in veterans up to his duck-boots from the first beckoning call, as the Rudicels, Stout, Shook, Risinger, Meyer, Lackey, Showalter, and Sering again graced the Redbird lineup. Charles Conrads, husky Marion sophomore, was the only new arrival capable of crashing the select circle.

Living up to their advance billing, the Cardinal organ-grinders swung out on Taylor University in the first fray, 42 to 18. Scoring was evenly divided.

"Mac" and his proteges boarded the train later that week for Madison, Wisconsin, where they met the Wisconsin Badgers in the first athletic competition between Ball State and the Big Ten school. The Red-clads were justifiably "keyed" to the limit, and might-nigh "unlocked" the Badger storehouse. Having a severe siege of the jitters, the Cards lagged at the start, but soon regained their composure and made a ding-dong daddy game of it. Wisconsin finally won, 38 to 33, but Purdue was defeated by even a worse score at Madison later in the season. Rex Rudicel had 5,000 Badger enthusiasts rolling in the aisles with his dervish dribbling and celebrated "dime stops."

The law of compensation seemed to hold sway the next evening as the red-clads clubbed the Beloit team into submission, 46 to 33. Every squad member had a hand in this field event. The memorable feature of the trip was a new high in Ball State spirit as evidenced by a midnight pep session at the Union Station for the McCracken-men.

A story-book rafter-flip by Marvin Stout in the last second of play beat a determined Indiana Central squad and sent the Cardinal cheering section loopy. The Cards, it must be admitted, had suffered a let-down from their Wisconsin trip and were fortunate to win.

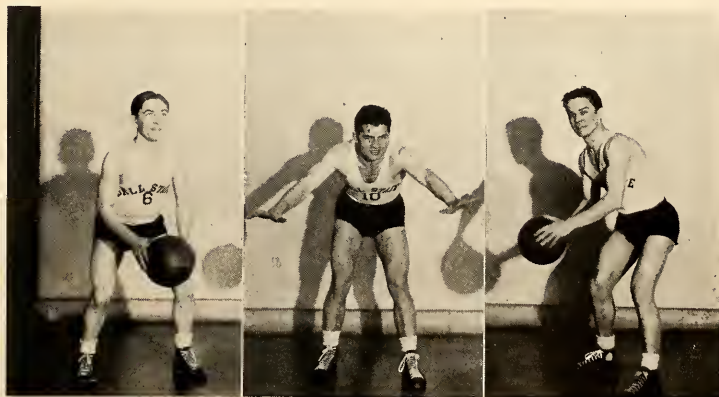

INDIANA CENTRAL SINKS A FOUL

The Franklin boo-birds and the Beeler Boys who whistled out thirty-six personal fouls in one game were not enough to daunt our prides, and the Redbirds returned to Muncie with a 40-32 win over the Grizzlies.

The ravaging Cards next pressed the valve down at Wabash, where the Cavemen sustained their initial soaking, 38 to 30. The boys showed an ornate passing attack, with Rex Rudicel potting six drapery-ticklers.

Striking a snag in their next fray, the lads saw a snorting Snider from Manchester usher three field goals through the meshes in the last two minutes and personally snatch a victory from them. The faltering Cards were simply out-maneuvered in this one and thus lost their first decision to a Hoosier foe.

STOUT BRINGING THE BALL UP COURT

Franklin's vindictive Grizzlies caught the Cards in the throes of a slump in a return engagement at Ball Gym, and led 25 to 16 with ten minutes left. Then in one of the most amazing protean acts ever staged by a Cardinal team, the red combination caught fire and within five minutes spurted into the lead. Here they stayed, flipping the ball around like a hot potato until the gun. It was the most satisfying comeback of the season.

Completely rejuvenated and recovered from the blind staggers of a slump that comes to every team, the torrid Cards traveled to Richmond and blanketed Earlham, 47 to 31. Our prides cut, passed, dribbled and shot with such fine precision that Earlham might as well have been painting the lily white. Shook's uncanny ball-handling, feeding, and bankboard acumen headed the bill.

Indiana Central avenged Stout's zero-hour fielder by edging out Ball State, 45 to 39 in a bruising encounter at the Capital City. The Greyhounds scored most of their points by leaping into the ozone like startled gazelles and firing accurately at the hoop with the maddest of one-handed hook shots. Risinger showed well for the Cards.

Indiana State was the next victim, as the Cardinals, hotter than the hinges of Hades, unloosed a terrific basket barrage for a 35 to 6 lead and then breezed in. "Kangaroo" Shook was the kingpin of the Cardinal onslaught with thirteen points.

CONRAD

INDIANA HAS THE BALL

The fortunes of war frowned and the basket was a closed issue to the Cardinals when the "Fightin' Hoosiers" played their dream game with McCracken's lads. As nervous as a freshman at a sorority tea, the Cards experienced scurvy bombing luck and canned but 12 per cent of their tries, the most disheartening average of the season. The Cards hung on doggedly, trailing 15 to 10 at the half and raising it to 16 to 13 as the second heat opened. The superior timing and blocking of Indiana's beef trust began to manifest itself, and the Deanmen slid into a ten point lead, a margin they held the balance of the struggle. The "Blonde Bombshell," Marvin Sout was a luminary for Ball State, while Gunning showed best for the Big Tenners.

Earlham suffered its second reverse from the Cards when the "Phantom Bantam,"

LACKEY

MGR. FEASEL

MEYER

Rex Rudicel, went to the races in the last five minutes. The game was a free-scoring affair, and both aggregations cast defense to the proverbial winds.

Wabash salaamed before the McCrackenmen for the second time in a weird game. Marvin Stout proved himself a jewel of consistency when he became the only regular to play the entire game.

Hotter than a burning boot, the Cardinals traveled to Manchester and blasted the Spartans high and dry—higher than a bird's nest and drier than a bathing beauty. Manchester found their visions of a conference championship only to be a naughty dream as they were toppled from their undefeated pinnacle. The sizzling Cards built up a 28 to 13 half lead and merely coasted in to a rough and earnest 47 to 37 victory.

DePauw's underrated Tigers kicked the bottom out of a battered dope bucket by slipping up on the Cards for a 27 to 25 upset. The red-clads held an 18-12 lead in the second frame when they folded up like a well-oiled and well-trained opera hat. Playing inspired ball and led by the confident Stimson, DePauw then surprised everyone, including themselves, to eke out the victory—their first in three years over Ball State.

Western State's potent Hilltoppers, one of the most lethal quintets in the Mid-west, played host to the Redbirds and established their supremacy after a steaming tussle. The Kalamazoo boys were baffled as the Muncie boys had a metamorphosis in the second salvo and turned on the gas for a twenty-point rally to make the score 30 to 29 in favor of the Michigan crew. Six minutes remained as Word and Arnold poured six consecutive fielders through the draperies to ice the contest. The Cardinals flashed brilliant form, but all-American Arnold was a little too much. Stout played his usually stalwart game, and Showalter showed to his best advantage of the season.

For the first time in some ten years, the Cardinals climbed the Sycamores from dear old Indiana State twice in the same year. In a blue-ribbon feature of Dad's Day, our boys sliced the Terry Hutters, 43 to 30. It was the prize home performance of the season from Ball State's standpoint, with the Lethal Lilliputian, Rex Rudicel, Stout, and Joe Risinger mainly responsible.

McCracken and his 1936-37 edition of Cardinals added a final flourishing touch to a prosperous season by taking the hide of a DePauw Tiger to the cleaners in its own lair. It was sugary vindication for the Cardinals, who had previously suffered an upset at the hands of DePauw's sawdust gladiators. There was little doubt of the outcome, as the Cardinals, functioning as smoothly as glass, rolled up a score like a window blind. The final score, 35 to 26, could have been almost anything. Stimson again led the frustrated Tigers, while the entire Cardinal squad played brilliantly.

BASEBALL

THE baseball season of 1936 was one of the most successful seasons of sport in the history of Ball State. During the season a record of eleven wins as against four losses were hung up by the diamondmen under the capable tutelage of Coach "Billy" Williams.

The outstanding victories were over Indiana University, Indiana Central, and Earlham. The leading hitter on the local club was R. Rudicel and the pitchers were paced by Ernie "Steel-arm" Sutton who hung up five wins.

After several delays and postponements due to the acting up of the weather man, the opening game was finally played April 18 against Indiana State at Terre Haute. The "Cards" were forced to accept the short end of a four to one score and the start was not a very auspicious one. Against Central Normal, however, the boys redeemed themselves and sent Williams and company home on the short end of a five to four score. The next two games with DePauw and Indiana Central respectively were split, with Ball State losing the former and winning the latter. The next four games were split with Indiana Central and

TRACK

ALTHOUGH never noted for outstanding track teams, Coach "Maggie" Magnabosco, had several outstanding stars on Ball State's track squad during the 1936 season. Johnny Lewellen set a new Little State record for the javelin throw of 181 feet and 10 inches, Ben Stout improved very rapidly in the course of the season and at the Olympic tryouts in Chicago placed fifth in a field composed of the greatest hurdlers in the country. During the season, Ben also equalled the record for the 440 yard dash of .51 seconds flat. Heinie Meyer in the high jump, Mel Wilson in the weight events, and Joe Clevenger in the distance runs were also very outstanding and their performances will long be remembered in the annals of Ball State track history.

TENNIS

ALWAYS noted for its lack of outstanding tennis players, Ball State did not prove an exception this last year and so far has yet to win a match. This can easily be excused, though, when one stops to consider the type of opposition met by the team in all its matches. Instead of scheduling weak teams upon which they could inflict whippings, the tennis team tackles the best which the secondary schools have to offer.

This year's team is made up of Brumfield, Hambenne, Peterson, Cushing, Willman and Houk. Since a majority of these men are returning to school next year, hopes are high for a better team in the future. The tennis team is coached by Branch McCracken.

INTERFRATERNITY BASEBALL

INTRA-MURAL

THIS school year saw a keener interest manifested by all the fraternities who took part in the intra-mural program sponsored by the athletic committee and the interfraternity council.

The program includes speedball, basketball, bowling, volleyball, ping-pong, and soft-ball. During the year, Triangles have taken the cup for winning bowling and ping-pong. Navajos captured the basketball cup. The Sigma Tau Gammas were victorious in the race for the volleyball crown and at this writing the Triangles and Navajos are tied for the lead in the softball league. Points are given for entering each sport and extra points are given for first, second, third, and fourth places. More than four hundred boys have taken part in the various events during the past year.

SPORT HEADS

The women's division of the Department of Physical Education, under the direction of Miss Grace Woody, Miss Regina Frank, and Miss Viola Bryson, continued its regular program of dancing, sports, games, and gymnastics this year.

The Women's Athletic Association sponsored by Miss Bryson offered a broad program of extra-curricular activities including hockey, volley ball, archery, dancing, tumbling, basketball, bowling, baseball, track and field, and tennis.

Each of the W. A. A. major and minor sport groups have a sport head selected from the organization.

SOPHOMORE HOCKEY CHAMPIONS

Interest in hockey was stimulated by the exhibition match between Earlham and the Scottish team which several members of W. A. A. attended at Earlham College this fall. The sophomores captured the tournament honors.

A familiar sight in the latter part of the fall term was that of our would-be "Robin Hoods" on the archery range. For the tournament each girl shot three rounds. Ranking was determined by the average of the three rounds. Dorothy Mabee finished with the highest score.

ARCHERY

VOLLEY BALL

Something about this volley ball fascinates even the slightly athletically inclined co-ed as fifty-five participated and earned points. The freshmen excelled both in numbers and skill.

Competition in basketball, as usual, was very keen. Forty-nine girls were out and earned points. The freshmen far surpassed the other class teams in skill. Their excellent team work and offense, and accurate shooting held their competitors, even the seniors, practically scoreless.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

BOWLING

Bowling was popular throughout the winter term. The group organized into teams of three and held a tournament. The winning team consisted of Frances Carter, Dorothy Wilson, and Bettie Kizer.

The Dog Trot early in the fall opened W. A. A.'s social activities. Freshman girls were guests and the purpose of the affair was to interest them in the sports program for the year.

TENNIS

W. A. A. sponsored monthly play nights for men and women physical education majors. These were extremely popular and well attended. Folk dancing and volley ball were the choice activities.

The program for the year included two over-night hikes. These leave us with some very happy memories.

MOTHER'S DAY

THE annual observance of Mother's Day was held on Friday, May 7 with Louise Jameson, in charge of arrangements.

A special convocation was held in honor of the mothers in the morning and at noon they were guests of their daughters and sons at the various organizations' luncheons.

The Faculty Women's Club, under the direction of Mrs. L. H. Whitcraft, entertained the mothers and students at an informal reception in the Arts Building from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. The evening program consisted of a banquet served by members of the home economics department at the Masonic Temple. Evaline Birum, president of the Girls Club, presided.

ALPHA PHI GAMMA

THE Omega chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary co-educational journalistic fraternity, is maintained on the campus for the recognition of individual ability and achievement in journalistic pursuits as evidenced in work on The Ball State News and The Orient, college publications.

Students who have served as business manager or editor of The Orient, two terms in a major position on the staff of The News, or three terms in a minor position on The News are eligible for membership if their scholastic averages and journalistic abilities meet the standards of the fraternity.

Activities of the chapter this year have included several business and social meetings, to one of which the entire Orient and News staffs were invited.

BLUE KEY

THE local chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity was organized on the campus in the spring of 1932 as a service club to promote worthwhile campus activities. Membership in the fraternity is limited to fourteen men who hold key positions on the campus.

This year the organization brought Anson Weeks to the campus to play for the 5th annual Blanket Hop, given in Ball Gymnasium, February 12, for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of "B" Blankets for graduating lettermen.

The organization sponsored a "Champ or Chump?" campaign which included caravans following the team, and a turn-out to meet the team on their return home. Other projects included the publication of the Homecoming program and the Indiana vs. Ball State basketball program. Blue Key was responsible for the collection of flood relief funds on Ball State campus. The local chapter sent a delegate to the national convention in New Orleans. Dean Ralph Noyer also attended this meeting as Secretary of the National Executive Council of Blue Key Honor Fraternity. The fraternity this year is presenting seventeen "B" Blankets to senior athletes.

KAPPA DELTA PI

KAPPA DELTA PI, national honorary society in education, was organized in 1911. By encouraging in its members a higher devotion to social service, by fostering high intellectual and personal standing, and by recognizing outstanding service in the field of education, it accomplishes its purpose. Election to membership is based upon social qualities and character as well as outstanding scholarship.

On May 28, 1931 the Gamma Theta chapter was organized at Ball State Teachers College.

PI GAMMA MU

BECAUSE its problems are among the most pressing in the world today, Pi Gamma Mu has devoted its meetings this year to a study of the youth movement. In this study it was materially aided by the American Youth Commission, which had established one of its research offices on this campus, and as two of its speakers the fraternity was fortunate in securing Mr. Owen R. Lovejoy, field director of the Commission, and Mr. R. T. Fuller, who was in charge of the local office.

Somewhat aside from this program, but not the less interesting, was the fraternity's convocation program, at which Miss Annie Rutz described the life of Oberammergau and the presentation of its world-famous Passion Play, in which she has twice played the part of the Virgin Mary.

In December, the chapter was greatly honored at the national convention of Pi Gamma Mu by being awarded a certificate in recognition of having had, of the 118 chapters of the fraternity, the outstanding program of the preceding year.

PI OMEGA PI

THE XI CHAPTER of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary co-educational fraternity for outstanding students of business education, was established at Ball State Teachers College in 1929 with ten charter members. It strives to encourage, promote, extend, and create interest and scholarship in business education; to aid civic betterment in colleges; to encourage and foster high ethical standards in business and professional life; and to teach the ideal of service as the basis of all worthy enterprises.

Each year the fraternity arranges a program of business meetings, dinner meetings with interesting speakers, and social and alumni meetings.

The theme for this year's program was "Occupational Opportunities." The subject discussed by Mr. H. B. Allman, Superintendent of Muncie Schools, was "Teaching." Representatives of other occupations were included in the program.

Members of the fraternity are also active in arranging for the annual commerce contest held on the campus.

SIGMA PI RHO

THE Indiana Alpha Chapter of Sigma Pi Rho, national honorary society in Latin, was established at Ball State on May 16, 1936. The present membership numbers twelve active and twenty-eight alumni members.

Election to membership is based on scholarship, manifestation of desirable social qualities, and character. The aim of Sigma Pi Rho is to stimulate a zeal for the classics, and to establish a valuable means of contact among those working in the field.

Dr. Menk, active local sponsor for Sigma Pi Rho, was appointed national counselor of the National Honorary Fraternity at a convention held in Farmville, Virginia, in April, which he and two other members of the local chapter attended.

Miss Elsie Foster, treasurer of the local chapter, is also treasurer of the national organization. The national convention will be held on Ball State Teachers College campus in the spring of 1938. Sigma Pi Rho led in the scholarship rating of organizations for 1936 with an average of 2.607 in its first year on the campus.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

THE Interfraternity Council is composed of eight representatives, four of them being the term presidents of the four fraternities and the remaining four being laymen elected from each of the organizations.

The purpose of the Council is to settle difficulties which may arise between one fraternity and another, and also to sponsor intramural activities.

Each year the Council sponsors the White River Revue, the proceeds of which are used to finance the intramural athletic program. This year a new system of awards was inaugurated. A trophy was given to the winner of each sport and also a large Victory Cup to the fraternity scoring the highest number of points during the whole year. The 1937-38 program was divided into three seasons: first, basketball and bowling; second, volley ball and table tennis; and third, playground ball.

With the help of Dr. Palmer the first annual College Sing, a competitive affair, was sponsored by the Council. There were two groups, one made up of the sororities and one made up of the fraternities. A trophy was awarded to each the winner of the sorority group and the winner of the fraternity group.

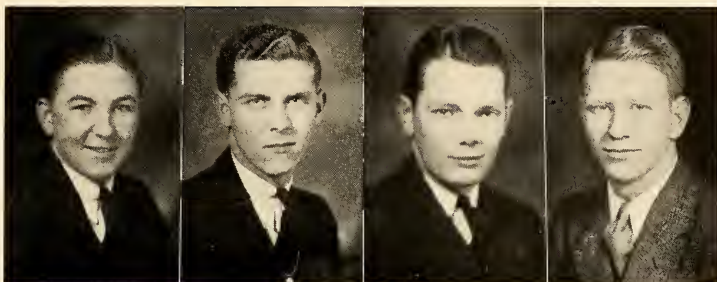

This year all the awards were presented to the winners at the annual senior convocation.

GIRLS CLUB EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

THE Girls Club is an organization open to all girls on the campus. The purpose of the club is to further the spirit of fellowship and good will among the women students of the school.

An informal party, opening the rush season, was the first social event of the year. This was followed by the annual formal dance on November 21. In February, the Girls Club was hostess to the Faculty Women's Club at a Valentine tea.

The major activity of the year is the sponsoring of the annual Mother's Day, which was held this year on May 7. A new phase of work of the Girls Club is the planning of activities for the summer term students. Dean Grace DeHority is advisor for the group.

COMMERCE CLUB

MEMBERSHIP in the Commerce Club is open to all students interested in business education. Its purpose is to stimulate and foster an interest in business education and offer an opportunity for the students to become better acquainted with each other and with the instructors of the department. The membership of the organization this year averaged two hundred members per term.

Each member is entitled to the Ball State Commerce Journal which is published in November, February, and May. The journal is devoted to the interest of business education in Indiana and is published by the Department of Business Education.

The program for the year consisted of lectures, and demonstrations on various kinds of office machines were given at the business meetings. The following business organizations from surrounding cities were represented by speakers: Dictaphone Sales Corporation, Addressograph Sales Agency, Remington Rand Incorporated, Multigraph Sales Agency, Monroe Calculating Machine Company, Yawman and Erbe Manufacturing Company, and The Stenotype Company.

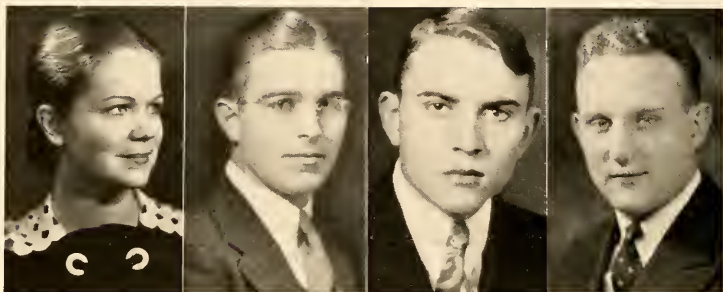

Each year the Commerce Club assists the Department of Business Education in sponsoring the Indiana State Commercial Contest. On March 31, 1937, more than twelve thousand high school boys and girls participated in the mass event. About five hundred of the winners in one or more of the six events competed in the final April 17, 1937.

In the evening contestants, teachers, and friends enjoyed the Victory Banquet in Ball Gymnasium and the dance in Recital Hall. Additional interest was created by the attendance prizes given at the banquet and games provided at the dance.

The Second Annual Business Show was held at the gymnasium on Friday and Saturday, April 16 and 17. The show provided an exhibit of office machines, equipment, supplies, and business textbooks for business teachers, business men and women, and business students, as well as for many others interested in up-to-date equipment for the business man.

BIOLOGY CLUB

THE Biology Club was founded in 1935 for the purpose of bringing together all students on the campus interested in biological studies. During the past year the members have enjoyed lectures including house plants, ex-rays, snakes, and malaria fever. Several motion picture films of scientific subjects were also exhibited.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

MEMBERSHIP in the Industrial Arts Club is open to any student enrolled in the department. Meetings are held once a month at which time speakers from various vocations in the city are guests of honor.

The ideals of Epsilon Pi Tau, honorary professional fraternity in Industrial Arts, are to esteem the function of skill in Industrial Arts and vocational industrial education, to promote social efficiency in the intermingling of human contacts, and to foster, reward, publish and circulate results of research in the fields of its interest.

KALLISTA ART CLUB

KALLISTA Art Club was organized in April, 1923, and is one of the oldest departmental organizations on the campus. Each year the club sponsors an art auction at which time various art and craft objects made by the art students are sold. Monthly meetings are held which include supper meetings, parties, and interesting talks on art topics by guest and faculty members. The annual senior dinner was held in May.

In 1935 an honor section, Tau Epsilon, was organized. Membership in this organization is acquired through outstanding achievement.

KINDERGARTEN-PRIMARY CLUB

TO FURTHER the professional interests and social relationships of kindergarten-primary students, the Kindergarten-Primary Club was founded in 1925 and has been an active organization. Any person on a kindergarten-primary course is eligible for membership.

A highlight of this year's program was the February dinner meeting, at which the club, as guests of the Childhood Education Association of Muncie, heard a lecture by Miss Jean Betzner, head of the primary education department of Columbia University. Other regular monthly meetings featured talks on travel, personality, hobbies, and teaching experiences. An October wiener roast, Christmas party, and a May breakfast were the social events of the year.

MUSIC CLUB

THE Music Club is one of the largest organizations on the campus for students interested in music education. The activities of the club are patterned after those of the National Federation of Music Clubs. It is the center of all activities of the several music organizations. It also provides an outlet for the musical talent of the school by giving students a chance to participate in programs as soloists or in ensembles. The members also have an opportunity to hear music presented by their fellow students and guest performers.

Each year the club presents "Campus Chords," one of the major productions of the college. It also sponsors the Music Festival given in April and May in which school children of central and eastern Indiana participate.

LATIN CLUB

SINCE its establishment in October, 1921, the Latin Club has endeavored to further the student's interest in the classics and to enable Latin enthusiasts to become acquainted with each other and with faculty members. At present the organization has a membership of thirty students and three faculty sponsors. During the year a series of meetings and parties have been held, including fall and spring picnics and a Christmas party. Programs for the 1937 meetings were centered around the life of Caesar Augustus whose two-thousandth birthday anniversary was celebrated this year. A Roman Banquet was held in the spring quarter as a climax to the year's activities.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

THE Mathematics Club was organized in 1929. It is open to all students who are interested in mathematics. The aims of the club are to promote good fellowship among the students and faculty and to increase interest in mathematics.

Programs for the year have consisted of talks by club members and club sponsors.

REKAMEMOH CLUB

Founded in 1920

THE purpose of the club is to promote interest in the field of home economics; to furnish an opportunity for social life; to promote better fellowship among the members; to develop an appreciation for scientific investigation in relation to home economics problems; and to aid in social service work. Outstanding activities during the past year include collecting toys for the nursery school, sponsoring the Home Activities Day, and the sending of delegates to the fall meeting of the State Home Economics Association.

INTERMEDIATE-GRAMMAR CLUB

The Intermediate-Grammar Club was organized for the purpose of furthering the educational and social interests of students enrolled on the Intermediate-Grammar Grade curriculum.

The most interesting social meeting was the Hallowe'en Dance which was held at Forest Hall. An educational trip was taken to Ball Brothers factory.

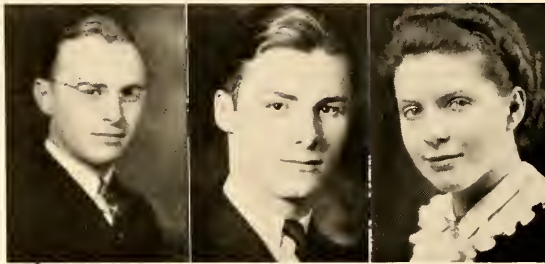

One of the outstanding events of the year is the sponsoring of Elementary Education Day in conjunction with the Kindergarten-Primary Club, the Education Department of Ball State, and Burris School.

DAD'S DAY

ONE day each year the campus of Ball State is the scene of lively activity when the "dads" from all over the state visit the college. This year the annual observance was held on February 25.

Marvin Stout of Winamac acted as general chairman for the affair. Working with him were Beulah Arnott, Marion Feasel, Helen Hohe, and James Harmeyer.

In the morning a special convocation was held in Assembly Hall in honor of the dads. At noon they were honored with a luncheon held in the Y. W. C. A. Arrangements were made for the dads to attend the Indiana State - Ball State basketball game that evening in Ball Gymnasium, a game which proved a victory to Ball State.

SPOTLIGHT CLUB

ONE of the most active organizations on the campus is the Spotlight Club. Each year the members present three major productions, one-act plays in convocation, and plays for the college broadcasts.

Since drama is composed of many arts, it is an activity which is a function of many departments. Excellent co-operation has been given by the English, Art, Industrial Arts, and Music departments.

Y. M. C. A.

THE Young Men's Christian Association of Ball State was first organized in 1921, as an affiliate of both state and national organizations, for the purpose of encouraging the Christian spirit in the life of the campus.

Many of the activities of the Y. M. C. A. are conducted jointly with the Y. W. C. A. During the past year these have included sponsorship of social activities during the freshman orientation period and publication of the "B" Book, and the sponsorship of Vesper services, which were held at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. In addition worship services, bean suppers, and swims have been held for the men of the campus. The Y. M. C. A. maintains a radio for student use in the west lounge of the Arts Building.

As a climax to the activities of the year, the Spring Student Y. M. C. A. Officers' Training Conference was held at Ball State. Delegates from several Indiana colleges and universities met for a two-day session, during which widely known speakers were on the program.

LUCINA HALL

Lucina Hall is the largest and most modern residence hall for girls on the campus. It was presented to Ball State by the Ball brothers and was first occupied in the fall of 1927.

Mrs. Benjamin J. Burris, director of the hall, supervises the activities of the dormitory with the assistance of the officers and various student committees. Included among the social events of the year were teas, formal and informal dances, and dinners for critic teachers.

FOREST HALL

Forest Hall was the first women's residence hall constructed on the campus. Its history dates from the year 1918 and its name probably recalls fond memories to more alumnae than any other building of the college. The administration of the hall is in the hands of the director, Mrs. Lola Ayres, the officers of the hall, and various committees.

Different groups arrange entertaining programs for the girls during the school year. Included in this year's program were a Thanksgiving breakfast, Christmas party, the annual "Hatchet Hop," Easter breakfast, and numerous other parties and dinners.

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

THE theatre from the time of the early Greeks to the present has been and is an art where spiritual light illuminated human living. In its productions the Spotlight Club has attempted to make this their creed by using a wide variety of types of plays to show many sides of human living.

BETTY WAITE AND DUDLEY SADLER IN "CANDIDA"

During the fall term George Bernard Shaw's play, "Candida," was presented. Unusual setting designed by Miss Clementine Eich of Burris and effective lighting handled by William Harmeyer marked the play as an outstanding one.

"Dangerous Corner" by J. B. Priestley was Spotlight's winter production. The play was an interesting one from the standpoint of plot, and marked the debut of several young actors on our campus.

Proclaimed the most popular play of the year was the spring production "Death Takes a Holiday" by Alberto Casella. It was a fitting climax to four years of work in dramatics for Howard Armstrong and Betty Waite. The setting used for the play showed how formal draperies can be used to the best advantage.

Dr. Raymond H. Barnard came to the campus this year to act as director of dramatics. His first year has ended a most successful one.

Martha Spille has acted as Spotlight business manager for all three productions this year. She is a senior and her efficient management during the last four years has been invaluable.

William Harmeyer, Betty Beidler, and Thelma Voyles have helped to build up the importance of the stage crew in Spotlight productions.

CAMPUS CHORDS

CAMPUS CHORDS, the annual production of the music department, presented March 3 in Assembly Hall, evidenced a high degree of showmanship and a wide variety of talent. A scenic background represented the Campus Chord theme, "The pot of gold at the end of our rainbow in music."

MARK PEARSON DESIGNING CAMPUS CHORDS SET

Through the earnest efforts of Louise Jameson, general director, assisted by Ralph Hart, business manager; Ralph Cripe, stage manager; Mark Pearson, scenery; Jesse Hoffman, costumes; and William Harmeyer, lighting, a very successful production was given.

The regularly organized music groups which took part in the production were the Madrigal Club, the Men's Glee Club, the college choir and the college orchestra under the able direction of Miss Elizabeth Mcloy and Professor Claude E. Palmer, head of the music department. There were also instrumental and vocal solos which were well received by an enthusiastic audience. Special dance numbers were given by members of the physical education department under the direction of Olga Wolf.

WHITE RIVER REVUE

THE 1937 edition of the White River Revue, equaled, if not surpassed, its predecessors. Headlined by the exotic passion of Fred Armstrong, the Revue was a series of fast moving and entertaining numbers. John Cushing set a new and higher standard for future M.C.'s. Other hit numbers were the Spitale-Milakovic dialogue, the "Kiddie Kapers" dance by the traditional beef trust chorines, Rolland Ehle's impersonation of Robert Benchley, and Earl Petro's tap dancing.

Howard Armstrong, billed as the second Houdini, proved himself second to none in his farce. The talented orchestra leader with the magnetic personality was none other than "Red" Eastman. The orchestra was furnished by Skeets Alexander, augmented by several Ball State musicians.

JUNIOR FOLLIES

THE JUNIOR FOLLIES of 1937 followed a much different theme than in years before. The first scene was laid along the bowery during the period known as the "Gay Nineties." A novel soft-shoe dance routine was presented by Viola Woods and Joe Graham and a typical bowery quartet was composed of Paul Fulwider, Omer Fisher, Overton Sacksteder, and J. Roy Benson. A Floradora Sextette, arranged by Harriet Slaughter, was reminiscent of earlier days.

The second part of the Follies was presented with a background in a modern night club. This scene featured an acrobatic dance by Ruth Robinson, vocal solos by Jack Reichart and Melba Grove, a special dance number featuring Orville Sink and Louise Benbow, and a chorus formed by the Madrigal Club.

Much credit is due Ben Rifner, who had charge of the set design and construction; Clifford Baker, business manager; and Ernest Baughman, ticket chairman.

BEAUTY SECTION

IN ORDER to picture the life at Ball State Teachers College, the Orient staff has this year introduced a new feature into the book known as the Beauty Section. It is sincerely hoped by each member of the staff that the girls chosen for the honor of being the most beautiful will meet with the approval of each and every member of the student body.

The staff of the Orient felt itself inadequate to handle the task of choosing the winners and so Joe Sanders, widely known orchestra leader and composer, was contacted and kindly consented to act in the capacity of judge.

The contest was open to every girl on the campus. Each contestant was requested to leave with the staff a picture of herself. These pictures were then handed to Mr. Sanders upon one of his personal appearances here in the city and he judged the winners.

Mr. Sanders said that he was going to try to pick a different type in every one of the winners. In the six winners we see sophistication, vivaciousness, beauty, personality, grace, and poise. There is probably much overlapping, but this could not be helped.

It is sincerely hoped by the staff that the feature is a popular one and that in years to come each Orient staff has as much cooperation as did this one in the carrying out of the project. — The Editor.

USE IS THE TEST

FOUR YEARS' work at Ball State should give one habits of thought and action and a fund of knowledge. Other years may bring a bit of wisdom.

Our first hope is that what one takes away from this college will help in doing the every-day jobs of life.

Use is as much a test of a college training as it is of a glass jar. BALL Jars have met the use test for fifty years. We hope you remember that when you are making ready to preserve your food supply.

Fully Accredited

MUNCIE, INDIANA

MEMBER OF

American Association of Teachers Colleges

AND

North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools

This state college offers courses leading to life licenses for Superintendents, Principals, High School Teachers, Special Teachers, Supervisors, Kindergarten, Primary, and Intermediate-Grammar Teachers. Work leading to the Master of Arts degree in Education is offered, in addition to the four-year college courses.

Ball State Teachers College is a growing institution. Since the school was established in 1918, the enrollment has increased from an average of 180 students to more than 1,200. It has certified for graduation almost 5,500 students. The teaching staff of 16 has grown to more than 100 members, and its qualifications have advanced in proportion to its numerical growth. The number of buildings has increased from two to ten buildings. A new Arts Building, which houses music, art, social science, English and foreign languages, and a large new service building have been completed. The campus consists of eighty acres, several of which are a natural forested area.

Every student in the college has an opportunity to take part in activities, which include dramatics, band, orchestra, glee clubs, choir, concerts, inter-collegiate sports and games, newspaper and annual work, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., hikes, field trips, departmental clubs, and social organizations. Seven honorary fraternities have been established. Libraries, laboratories, gymnasiums, and athletic fields are well equipped.

The departments include art, business education, English, education, foreign languages, mathematics, science, social science, home economics, industrial arts, music, library, and physical education.
